they can. Your main goals likely consist of just trying to live a good, happy lifestyle, finding friends, and in honesty, not being alone. You're not really into drama or fighting, and you have a good idea of what you find to be right or wrong. You are loving, compassionate, and are a natural caregiver who is always there to help others when they might need someone. You may hold on to the past and have a tendency to attach on to sentimental times/things. Things in your past such as past friendships, ex's, etc, might've caused you a lot of setbacks and might've even impacted your insecurities. You might feel "haunted" or as if there's a weight on your shoulders. You may even feel that it is your responsibility to [...]re for others, but fix their problems too, and insert yourself into things [...]elcome in. On the other end of things, you might give so much of [...] see when that overexertion might be draining you or hurting your [...] continue to grow as a person and do your best to bring about good
